

Scriptorium

Research & Storytelling Centre

NPO 148-645 | PBO 930048013 | Article 18A

Scriptorium, in essence, is a space where research and storytelling intersect. It is a time-space event where research morphs into storytelling and where storytelling transforms into research.

Scriptorium facilitates vibrant and inclusive processes of marveling at life, producing, creatively and innovatively transforming knowledge to make it accessible, relatable, and usable to the general public.

Research & Storytelling simply put, is searching for answers and solutions in contribution to the telling and retelling of life stories. It is an omnidirectional movement – always in flux and ever-evolving...

Vision & Mission

To provide a multi-purpose, multi-dimensional, and interdisciplinary education and research development centre that produces, innovatively transforms, and reapplies data from the existential sciences field.

Objective & Main Business

To carry on business of general trading, consulting and facilitating in the education, development, and research industry.

Conversations

Seminars

Conferences

Workshops

Courses

Retreats

Our Philosophy is best illustrated by way of a process. The first step in this process is what we refer to as a Concept Lounge. This is a space for developing new ideas, reflecting on problems, and searching for solutions – in general, a space that stimulates thinking.

The second step is to take this new idea, concept, problem-solving (this includes research that is already published) and transform and rework it into a product, service, or any other format that makes it accessible to the general public.

PRODUCTION

Our third and final step is to package this product, service, or solution. This is where our innovative and creative ideas are packaged, produced, and distributed.

@ScriptoriumRSC

www.scriptorium.org.za